The Sidney Breakfast Club (SBC) is a monthly gathering of manufacturers, industrialists, engineers, and tech enthusiasts with a cooperative spirit. The SBC is a space for networking, knowledge-sharing, and fostering collaboration among diverse businesses. The club has been a vital part of the Sidney business district since the early 1990s, providing a platform for sharing insights, addressing management challenges, and collectively contributing to the tech sector's success. Today, the SBC continues its legacy of supporting both seasoned CEOs and budding entrepreneurs.

On December 13th, Rainhouse Manufacturing Canada Ltd.'s very own Ray Brougham, accompanied by Chris Lichty, attended the December 2023 Sidney Breakfast Club (SBC) meeting. Ray Brougham, CEO of Rainhouse, joined Jennifer Michell, VP of Titan Boats, Michael Williamson, CEO of Cascadia Seaweed, and Terri O'Keeffe, Town of Sidney Councillor, as the featured Industry Panel. Together, they engaged in a robust conversation and Q/A session, delving into the nuances of Lower Island Marine Industry Economic Development.

“Great meeting this morning - 53 fascinating people chatting about Lower Island Marine Industry development.”

Ray, a dedicated SBC member for over a decade and a recent addition to the COAST board, brings extensive knowledge of the marine industry, rooted in his experience manufacturing marine parts. His valuable insights were a key contribution to the panel discussion.
